Dropping into Presence: A Meditation, Movement and Mark Making workshop with Suna Imre

The Gatehouse Studios & Garden, 15 St. James' Lane, Winchester SO22 9NX

10 am - 1 pm

Mark making can be a brilliant way to explore spontaneous expression and raw energy. Join Suna for a morning finding silence and presence through meditation, then explore gentle approaches to moving the body that bring freedom, ease and authenticity. Finally spend time exploring several different approaches to mark making in ink, charcoal and pencil that can enrich your own practice, tuning into sound, breath and the body. For those with some experience or none! All materials provided.

Tickets £ 35 from EventBrite. Places limited to 8

Late Additions to the Garden Festival Programme

The next four events listed here a part of a collaboration with Julian Staddon, Senior Lecturer at Winchester School of Art. These events are jointly supported by the Winchester School of Art, the Higher Education Innovation Fund, the KEE Fund, the Sustainability and Resilience Institute, and The British Academy.

THURSDAY 25TH JUNE

TeleAgriCulture Environmental Sensing Hackathon

Winchester School of Art Rotunda, Park Avenue, Winchester SO23 8DL

10am - 5pm

Build simple weather stations and explore how they can support growing and creative work. In this hands-on workshop, we will build bespoke weather stations and place them around the WSA campus. Together we will look at what they can tell us about local conditions and how environmental data might support creative projects, small scale growing, and wider discussion about food security and care for place.

Free entry, but please book your place on Eventbrite

Small Signals, Big Ideas:

A Winchester School of Art Mini Exhibition & Showcase

Winchester School of Art Rotunda, Park Avenue, Winchester SO23 8DL

6pm - 8pm

This exhibition brings together new and evolving work by students, staff, and guest contributors from the Department of Art Media and Technologies, alongside outcomes from the Environmental Sensing Hackathon, taking place earlier in the day. On show will be small works, experiments, prototypes, and ideas in progress exploring how we sense, imagine, and relate to nature, ecology, food, material change, and environmental futures. It offers a simple and engaging way to see how teaching, research, and public events connect at Winchester School of Art.

Free entry, but please book your place on Eventbrite

FRIDAY 26TH JUNE

Foraging Ideas, Farming Knowledge and Fermenting Cultures Workshop

Winchester School of Art Rotunda, Park Avenue, Winchester SO23 8DL

1pm – 5pm

Join us for a guided walk from Winchester School of Art through the Winnall Moors and back, followed by an introduction to local growing practices and a simple hands-on fermentation session using locally foraged and farmed ingredients. We will explore edible wild plants, small scale food growing, and food preservation, while also sampling locally produced foods.

Free entry, but booking is essential on Eventbrite

There will also be an opportunity to try the results of the day at a special event 'In an English Country Garden' at The Deane House on Sunday June 28th. NB this is a separate chargeable event. See Eventbrite for details.

SATURDAY 27TH JUNE

Winchester Living Lab Sandbox

Winchester School of Art Rotunda, Park Avenue, Winchester SO23 8DL

11am – 2pm

A public event exploring creative ways to design better food growing spaces.

Artists, researchers, growers, and local communities are invited together to explore how allotments, gardens, and other food spaces can become shared learning places. Through TeleAgriCulture, visitors can discover simple sensing tools, creative ideas, and practical ways to think about soil, water, biodiversity, and local food systems, while also being introduced to four recently funded projects that are aimed at establishing living labs orientated around growing food across Hampshire, that are connected to our partner sites in Europe and Africa. Visitors are welcome to both participate directly or observe.

Free entry, but booking is essential on Eventbrite
